

After our polite Reply to Your Mail , I Guess You didn't bother to read or study about fair use Law of Copyright and you keep repeating the same things.

I can understand that your income or earnings of your company is depended on money you recover from unauthorised use of your client's image. That's why you are totally obsessed with taking our money just because of a small mistake made by student and ignoring all rules made by the government.

This time I am going to explain you in brief

Please note following points

1. Website Created by Student whose father and i known to each other since last 25 years or more, he came to me with the idea to create that website for learning , practice and to showcase his work to his Classmates , teachers and Project .as he was unable to afford hosting cost , i brought it.
2. Website is not commercial , not in market and main thing it's not fully functional , its under review and working process.You should at least check functionality of website white taking Screenshots

Now I don't expect you to understand that mistake and don't charge me that money so 'fair use ' came into play which states that certain uses of copyright-protected works do not infringe the copyright owner's rights.

Now I understand that i can use fair use as defence only at court if you sue me and as opponent right now you will going to consider it So if you want to bring this matter to court then we have to use all defence and as information provided to you , you too now know that i am going to win because this use was a fair use even you can't deny that . so just try to understand that I am not using that image anywhere right now as per my knowledge.
